HYDE PARK, NY -- The Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidential Library and Museum is pleased to present "Why Libraries (and Research Skills) Matter" with Google's Daniel Russell on Thursday, November 3, 2016. The program will begin at 3:00 p.m. in the Henry A. Wallace Center at the FDR Presidential Library and Home. This event is free and open to the public.

This talk will explore Daniel Russell's own work to change the way academics think about knowledge and information. According to Russell, there's always been a gap between those who know how to use information resources and those who don't. Those who know the ways to leverage a library for research consistently do better research than those who don't.

Daniel Russell is Senior Research Scientist on Search Quality and User Happiness at Google. He has worked at Apple, IBM, Google and Xerox and has been at the forefront of the search revolution for two decades. He is also a member of the Future of Information Alliance.

Please contact Cliff Laube at (845) 486-7745 or email clifford.laube@nara.gov with questions about the event.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidential Library and Museum

Designed by Franklin Roosevelt and dedicated on June 30, 1941, the Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidential Library and Museum is the nation's first presidential library and the only one used by a sitting president. Every president since FDR has followed his example and established a presidential library administered by the National Archives and Records Administration to preserve and make accessible to the American people the records of their presidencies. The Roosevelt Library's mission is to foster a deeper understanding of the lives and times of Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt and their continuing impact on contemporary life. This work is carried out through the Library's archives and research room, museum collections and exhibitions, innovative educational programs, and engaging public programming. For more information about the Library or its programs call (800) 337-8474 or visit www.fdrlibrary.org.
