Corrigan, Herbert C. Pell, Isador Lubin, Rexford G. Tugwell, Lowell Mellet, Samuel I. Rosenman, David Gray and Henry Wallace.

SUMNER WELLES (1892-1961)

Sumner Welles was born in 1892 and educated at Groton School and Harvard. He graduated in 1914 and began his diplomatic career in 1915 as secretary of the United States Embassy in Tokyo. From 1917 to 1919 he served in a similar post in Buenos Aires, Argentina. He was assistant chief of the Latin American affairs division of the Department of State, 1920-21, and chief of the division, 1921-22. He was minister plenipotentiary and envoy extraordinary to the Dominican Republic, 1922-25; delegate to the Congress on Latin American Affairs in Washington, D.C. in 1922; personal representative of the President to offer mediaiton in the Honduras revolution, 1924; delegate to the Central American Conference in Amapala, Honduras, 1924; and a member of the Dawes Financial Mission to the Dominican Republic, 1929. Welles was named Assistant Secretary of State in 1933, a post heheld until 1937, with a brief tenure as ambassador to Cuba; from 1937 to 1943 he served as Under Secretary of State.

Welles was President Franklin D. Roosevelt's personal envoy on a fact-finding mission to Europe early in 1940, and accompanied Roosevelt to his meeting at sea with Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill of Great Britain in August 1941. His main area of expertise was Latin American affairs, and this is reflected in the voluminous documentation on that region of the world to be found in his papers. He was the author of Naboth's Vineyard (1928); Four Freedoms (1942); The Time for Decision (1943); Where We Are Heading (1946); We Need Not Fail (1948); and Seven Decisions That Shaped History (1950).

NOTES ON USE OF THE SUMNER WELLES COLLECTION.

The Sumner Welles Papers arrived at the Roosevelt Library in July 1995 and were processed by the archives staff and opened in the spring of 1996.

The collection was donated by Mr. Benjamin Welles. While the collection was still in Mr. Welles' possession, several scholars worked with it and in doing so created several indexes. The scholars included Terry E. Nadeau of the Ford Foundation who did the basic organizing of the collection: removing it from storage containers, placing it in filing cabinets, and creating most of the card file, 1919-1943. The card file was completed by Mrs. Frank W. Graff, whose husband did extensive research in the papers during 1972-74. Mrs. Graff also developed the cross-filing system while assisting in the research of her husband and Mr. Benjamin Welles.

The card file consists of entries for documents from the General Correspondence, with references to Country Files and Topical Files. These headings were part of the index created by Mrs. Graff but not retained in the current series arrangement. The General Correspondence file was divided into the Office File, 1920-1943, and the Personal Correspondence Files, 1943-1950. The Country Files were divided into the Europe File and the Latin America File series. The Topical Files, except for Postwar Problems and Major Correspondents which were made separate series, were filed under Office Correspondence, Europe Files, Latin America Files, and Speeches and Writings.

Card file entries are by year and thereunder alphabetically by surname of correspondent or organization. Correspondence was filed both under the name of correspondent and the name of the organization or country in which the person worked or was affiliated. The card file also directs researchers to other locations where related correspondence may be found. Beginning in 1941, the card file is less detailed, since documents of lesser importance (visa cases, invitations not accepted, "fan mail," etc.) were not carded or cross referenced.

Researchers should note several filing inconsistencies in the Welles Papers. (1) Names beginning with de or d', such as D'Alessandro, were filed both under the letter D and the letter A. (2) Again, correspondence with an individual may be filed under the person's name or the institution. (3) Finally, in cases of Spanish double surnames, e.g. Maximino Avila Camacho, letters were filed under both names. Although efforts were made to regularize (1) and (3), researchers should check under both letters to be certain, and also consult the card file.

There is also a small subject index, and special card indexes for Cuba, Dominican Republic, and the Major Correspondents. A list of the subject index headings is in Appendix A.

There is also a carded chronology of major events in the life of Sumner Welles.

Finally, there are copies of correspondence from various depositories which Mr. Benjamin Welles accumulated during the course of his research on his father's life. These are filed in chronological order at the end of the collection.
